

time:matters opens new Sameday Air station in Aberdeen (ABZ)

Neu-Isenburg, February 21, 2012: time:matters, the expert for global Special Speed Logistics, consistently continues to expand its Sameday Air network. Effective immediately, the Scottish airport Aberdeen (ABZ) is available as an additional station for the transport of highly urgent and complex shipments. This increases the time:matters Sameday Air network to a total of 104 stations.

“We actively promote the opening of new stations, in order to offer our customers the most comprehensive network coverage possible and the best service at all times. With Aberdeen, we are incorporating the focus area for the oil industry in the North Sea region into our network. The new station is therefore highly interesting for customers from the Oil & Gas, Ship Spares and Maritime industries – their time-critical shipments benefit from several daily direct flights to the international hub Frankfurt (FRA) and subsequently from the fastest possible access to our entire Sameday Air network. This translates into shorter transport times and increased flexibility for our customers and their highly urgent shipments,” says Franz-Joseph Miller, CEO of time:matters GmbH.

Aberdeen is one the most important airports in Scotland and already the tenth time:matters Sameday Air station in the UK.
