

Further expansion:
time:matters extends its Sameday network to Africa

- time:matters opened the first Sameday Air station in North Africa in Casablanca on December 13, 2022
- There are now 17 direct connections available per week to Morocco
- In total, the Sameday Air network includes more than 200 stations and 21 partner airlines worldwide

Neu-Isenburg, December 14, 2022: New station in Casablanca: time:matters has extended its network for same-day transports to include North Africa. The expert in high-performance and special speed logistics has thereby connected Africa as a new continent to its unique Sameday Air network, which also covers Europe, Israel, the US, and Mexico. With Casablanca now being served 17 times a week with direct connections from Frankfurt and Paris, customers with urgent shipments will benefit from increased service frequency to one of North Africa's most important and major economic regions.

Alexander Kohnen, CEO of time:matters, explained: "We've been seeing rising demand from our customers and focus industries, such as the automotive, high-tech, aviation and aerospace sectors, for highly efficient transport options to Casablanca and North Africa for some time. By expanding our first-class Sameday Air service, we're now filling this gap and ensuring even more options and flexibility in our transport solutions going forward."

Thanks to this network expansion, customers will be able to take advantage of additional flight connections for shipments weighing up to 300 kg. In addition to speed and flexibility, maximum quality is also assured through the physical monitoring of all shipments. Globally, more than 100 stations in Europe, Israel and Africa, another 100-plus stations in the US and Mexico and 21 partner airlines can now be combined globally in the Sameday Air network, including Casablanca as a new location. Shipments can also be picked up and delivered on request.

As usual, Customer Service teams are available around the clock to provide advice and support as well as look after all steps along the transport chain.
